NOTES OF THE WEEK.

Saturday, 31st March.

Veray tempting-looking nuggets from Kinndfa are beginning to be seen in the shop windows of nearly every jeweller in George-street. These visible signs of the richness of this new "Dorrado" have naturally had an inflammatory effect upon adventurous diggers. In the spring there will assuredly be a great rush to the Alps. At present it is admitted that, although some may winter in that neighbourhood, and may even make a good thing of it, the season for profitable labour by the million is nearly at an end. It is to be hoped that the Government will make arrangements for the location of a strong body of police on this gold-field. The force there at present is wholly inadequate for the preservation of order, and, as might naturally be expected, the thieres and vagabonds from Melbourne and Sydney have flocked to Kinndra as a promising field for the exercise of their particular talents. Robberies have been very common, and, in the absence of an effective police force to repress the thieves, the honest diggers seem very much inclined to fall back upon a vigorous system of Lynch law. One fellow, who was caught in an attempt at horse-stealing, had his haircut close, and was well ducked in the nearest pond. He came off better, upon the whole, than he could have expected, but there was some talk about cropping his ears, and if the people there once get a taste for lynching, there is no knowing what they may do. In a British colony such a state of anarchy can never be tolerated. Upon the Government of the day will rest the responsibility for these disorders if effective measures be not taken for their repression.

The reward payable by the Government on the discovery of gold at Kiandra, has been claimed by three persons—Messrs. Gryce, Smith, and Follock. A public meeting was held there for the purpose of hearing the claimants, and backing up the demand of the one who might be supposed to have made out the best case. As might have been expected, however, it was a mere disorderly ass NOTES OF THE WEEK.

At the Bathurst Circuit Court a man named George-West has been sentenced to two years' imprisonment for the abduction of Catherine Cooper, a girl of sixteen. It appeared, from the evidence, that the fellow had seduced her some three years before.

At the same Court Mary Ann Brady, a widow, was convicted of manslaughter, and sentenced to three years' imprisonment in Darlinghurst gaol. The person she killed was one Daniel Curland, and she did this by stabbing him in the breast with her seissors. Her defence was that he had attempted to take indecent liberties with her.

Darby Fitzgerald has been convicted at the same Court of having killed one Patrick Ryan, in a drunken quarrel at a funeral. He was sentenced to a year's imprisonment with hard-labour.

A lecture on photography was delivered on Monday evening, before the Darling Point Mutual Improvement Association, by Mr. J. Freeman.

On the same evening Mr. J. Pattison lectured at the Waverley School of Arts on the phrenological character of Oliver Goldsmith.

The Rev. A. H. Bull has lectured at the Church Society's House, Phillip street, on Henry VIII. and the Reformation; but as nine o'clock' arrived without a termination of his discourse, it was adjourned until another occasion.

The Rev. Mr. Cuthbertson has lectured at the Temperance Hall upon "Charles Nash and Reformatory Institutions," We hope that some one may be stimulated to take this work of benavolence in hand here. There is a very sad want of something in the nature of a reformatory school for the young "Arabs" of this city.

William Henry Drew, John Vaughan, and William, Lee have been convicted of robbing the branch bank of New South Wales at Deniliquin, and putting the inmates in bodily fear. It will be remembered that these follows had their faces hidden, and that these follows had their faces hidden, and that they made other efforts to prevent their identity from being discovered, but they were betrayed by an accomplice, and the chain of evidence against them—both circumstantial and direct—were very complete. Lee and Drew have been sentenced to ten years labour on the roads, of which two years, are to be passed in irons. Vaughan's sentence is eight years' labour on the roads, without froms. The cause of this difference would seem to be that Vaughan was drawn into the crime by the others.

The survivors of the Sapphire's crew who brought the Marina and her cargo to Ghadstone from the Barrier reef, have taken proceedings to recover one-third of the value of such vessel and cargo as salvage. When her loss was reported, the wreade, as it then lay, was sold at auction, and Messrs. R. Towns and Co. became the purchasers for £30. Captain Weston, who was a passenger by the Sapphire, and who was one of those who helped to bring in the Marina, abandoned all claim to salvage. Mr. Beveridge, the mate of the Sapphire and acting commander of the Marina, made some arrangement with Messrs. Towns and Co. To the remainder of the crew this firm offered £50 per man, and one of them has taken this sum, but the rest demun. They value the this sum, but the rest demur. But evidence was adduced to show that the latter was a woman of skill and, experience, and the coroner's jury have declared the death of the infant to have resulted from "inadvertence." Mrs. Hughes not only attended in this case as a matter of charity to the unhappy mother, who was cursed with a drunken and ruffinnly husband, but supplied at her own cost certain necessaries which the "poor woman had to menus of procuring.

Li, A man named Alexander Morrow, of Campbell-etown, having died rather suddenly a short time since, supicion of having poisoned hith has fallen upon a woman with whom he cohabited. It is said that she refused to allow certain vessels to be used from which the deceased had received foed, and she decamped with another man directly after Morrow's burial. The body has been exhumed, and the stomach brought to Sydady for analysis. The inquest has been adjourned until the result of this analysis can be reported.

John Ross, a labourer, has died from tetanus, the result of a neglected wound on one of his fingers received on shipboard.

Messrs. Watson and Paul, who were working the yacht Blue Bell at the time she ran down the fishing boat of Mr. Paritt, and caused two of his sons to be drowned; have been committed for trial. The committing imagistrate, however, intimated his opinion that no case had been made out; although he would not take upon himself the responsibility of discharging the accused.

The Albury and Murray River' Agricultural and Horticultural Society have held their fifth annual meeting.

The long-pending Custom House enquiry has resulted in a report from the board to the effect that the charges by the Collector against Messrs. Metcalf and Powell, of having conspired with the Colonial Sugar Company to defraud the Government, were not made out; but that these parties had cause to complain of the tone of the Collector's letters to them. A charge against Messrs. R. Towns and Co. of removing tea from their boaded store, is said to have been satisfactorily explained.

There was a beautiful appearance of the Aurora Australia, in the neighbourhood of Sydney on Wednesday evening. This phenomena lasted for more than an hour. The sky for a considerable space above the eastern horizon was of a deep and brilliant red.—Below this, and down to the horizon itself, there was the same kind of-faint groy light, which is seen at dawn. Occasionally the red deepened and brightened, or was crossed by bars of-faint groy. At one time there was a row of such bars right across the sky, so far as it was illuminated by the Aurora, presenting the aspect of, as it were, a grand colestial crown. All these changes were very rapid.

A public meeting of St. Mary's Literary Society was held on Thursday evening, and the officers for the current year were elected.

A lecture on Steam and the Steam-engine has been delivered at the St. Leonard's School of Arts, by Mr. H. Severn.

There has been a very serious riot at Maitland. The Rev. Mr. M.Intyre, a minister of the Free Church of Scotland, spoke of the Roman Catholic religion as "baptised" heathenism," in an address which he delivered some time ago at Hinton on the subject of State-aid. For this he was attacked by the Rev. Dean Lynch. A war of words enaued. The Free Church minister, it seems, thought himself bound to make good his standing on this question against the Roman Catholic dean, by renewing, in a more definite form, his attack on the faith of the latter. He accordingly announced that, accepting the responsibility cast upon him by, circumstances, he would, on a certain evening, deliver, a lecture on "The Heathenism of Popery." Immediately after this announcement, an advertisement appeared in the Maitland Mercury, bearing the names of a great many persons of all denominations—some of them magistrates—denouncing the proposed lecture as an attempt to disturb the peace and harmony of the district, and inviting all who loved "Christian charity and the social bonds" to join in preventing its delivery. As Mr. M'Intyre persisted in his intention to deliver the lecture, there was a great muster from all quarters towards the church at the time named for its commencement. This crowd was excited, or rather excited itself to perfect fury. As the church was not opened they smashed the windows and tore down the palings. The Rev. Mr. M'Intyre himself, and was with difficulty rescued by his brother, who, in "effecting his rescue, was severely injured. The mob were only induced to disperse on an assurance from Mr. Day, the police magistrato, that th

MARCHEAY fall of rain up to midday yesterday, the first match between the newly established clubs here came off on the 5th instant, at Frederickton, the prize being two first-class bats and a new ball. The ground was very wet, causing the ball to be dull, and rondering it very difficult to make a large score. The play, however, was very creditable on both sides, the Frederickton players, perhaps, excelling in bowling and fielding, and the Union, or Kempsey, in batting. The match was a very close one, the last man of the Fredericktonians going in with nine runs to win. Two slashing forward hits then secured five, when a well pitched ball proved, foo much for the last man, and left the Unions victorious by three runs only. The return match comes off, weather permitting, on St. Patrick's-day, at Kempsey. A challenge has been sent by the above clubs to the wielders of the willow at Rolland's Plains, and, we believe, accepted for the 20th. This will do our players more good than half-a-dozen matches, amongst themselves, and we trust, lead to many friendly and enjoyable-meetings. Cricket grounds have been formed by both, the Clubs, and although not exactly equal to Lord's or the Kennington Oval, will be very good next season, and admit of the game being played without let or hindrance.

Accident - On the sixth, Mr. Francis Scott, whilst riding after cattle, met with a sovere fall which nearly dislocated his hip. He has been confined to his bed, and suffered much from the shock.

Power Operor.—On Tuesday last, the two men Kerrison and Asherwood, mentioned in my last, were fully committed to take their trial, at Port Macquarie, for stealing flour and sugar-from a boat. Some further evidence was gone into, tending to complete the case for the prosecution. On Wednesday, the prisoners, together with the man Heald's, were marched off on a way of the senting at the Devil's Nook is al break for the last three weeks, puts a stop to all progress. Then, again, the endless squabbles in the Assembly—the non-passing of the Estimates, and the consequent uncertainty regarding the sinews of war,—cause not only an incalculable waste of time and money, but are almost sufficient to damp even the energy of our valuable superintendent.

March 19th.—The first mails from Sydney since the 40th instant, arrived here yesterday. We have now had nearly a month's continuous wat weather, such as to keep all the small creeks flooded and make them impassable. It cannot, however, have rained much on the Upper Macleay, as the river at Kempsey, although swelled, is nothing to what it then would have been. On the 17th we had a break in the weather, and as it has continued fair up to the present moment we begin to hope it has ceased. Much damage has been done to the early maize; it his sprouted and grown up almost in every instance.

'Thirts.—The Quarter Sessions at Port Macquarie on the 12th instant, seem to have gone off pretty well, if we take the frightful weather into account. One of the depositions in a flour stealing case, in this district, got stopped by the floods, and the case had to be adjourned to the next sitting. The other prisoner Healds, for violation, was sentenced to three years hard labour—a sentence much too lenient for the offence.

CRICKET MATCH.—The grand match between the cricketers of the Macleay and those of Rollands Plains, came off at the latter place on a the 20th instant, and resulted in the total defeat of Rollands Plains, we may say, in one innings. The score was: Rollands Plains, lt innings, 26: 2nd innings, 27; total, 53: and, Macleay, lst innings, 26: 2nd innings, 27; total, 53: and, Macleay, lst innings, 53; thus making it a tie in one innings. The winning number was scored without losing la wicket, on the very first ball. The entire match was played in pouring rain, so that we cannot criticise the play, but the Macleayites, in any weather, were evidently the strongest, more especially in batting. On the Tuesday, as good a spread as the George Inn could possibly provide was given to the Macleayites by; their, defeated adversaries, and the usual amount of toasts and speechifying performed in the greatest good feeling. The Rollands Plains menstriving, in spite of the terrible weather, to do their utmost towards enjoyment and sociability. The Riyer Wilson getting up bank high on the 21st, the whole party had to remain, noless solens, and play cricket, until the morning of the 22rd, when, about mid-day, all returned in triumph to Kempsey, with flags flying, &c. Another match is on the tapit for Baster Monday.

MAITLAND CIRCUIT COURT.—Civil Side, (Abridged from Saturday's Mercury) THUREDAY, MARCH 28.

TRUBEDAY, MARCH 28.

HART V. BRODBRICK.

Before the Chief Justice and a jury of four.

This was an action of trespass, in which Elijah Hart was plaintiff, and John Broderick defendant. The declaration stated that the defendant had broken and entered on the plaintiff's land, broken and destroyed his fence, and keep possession, whereby the plaintiff had been deprived of the use of his land, and had been otherwise injured. Damages were laid at £200. The defendant pleaded, first, not guilty; second, that the land was not the plaintiff's land; third, that he had leave and license from the plaintiff; and fourth, that the land was the freehold of the defendant.

Mr. Faucett appeared for the plaintiff; attorney, Mr. Mullen. For the defendant, Mr. Isaacs; attorney, Mr. Chambers.

Verdict for the plaintiff on all the issues; damages, one farthing.

torney, Mr. Chambers.

Verdict for the plaintiff on all the issues: damages, one farthing.

SCOTT V. RUSH AND ANOTHER.

In this action Alexander Walker Scott was plaintiff, and Barthelomew Rush and Charles Mooney were defendants. The declaration stated that the defendants had broken and entered upon the land of the plaintiff at Woodford, trumpled down and spoiled the grass, and felled a thousand of the trees, which they carried away and converted to their own use. Under a second count the plaintiff sued the defendants for seizing, carrying away, and converting to their own use a number of poles, the property of the plaintiff. There was also a third count, to allke effect. Damages were laid at £1000. The defendants pleaded not guilty; and in other pleas stated that they had entered under the authority of a superintending officer, and of the Act 20 Vict., No. 41; that the trees were taken for the purpose of constructing an electric telegraph; and that in taking them the plaintiff s grass was unavoidably trampled, but no unnecessary damage was done. On these pleas issue was joined.

For the plaintiff Mr. Faucett and Mr. Windeyer; attorney, Mr. Iceton. For the defendants, Mr. Isaacs; attorneys, Messre. Brenan and Brown.

Verdict for the defendants upon all the issues.

Mr. Faucett applied to his Honor to certify, under the District Courts Act, that this case was one which could not have been heard in the District Court.—After hearing Mr. Isaacs, who, on behalf of the defendant, poposed the application, his Honor granted the certificate.

Fendant, opposed the application, his Honor granted the certificate.

Before the Chief Justice and juries of four.

Dowers to Price.

This was an action of ejectment brought by Henry Dowers to recover possession of about 500 acres of land, on the Wollombi Road, near Maitland, held by James Price. The plaintiff produced a grant from the Crown; and the description of the land claimed in the declaration corresponded with that in the grant. The defendant who was shown to be in possession, made no appearance; and, under his Honor's direction, a verdict was returned for the plaintiff.

For the plaintiff, Mr. Faucett; attorney, Mr. Briggs.

For the plaintiff, Mr. Faucett; attorney, Mr. Briggs.

This was an action of ejectment to recover ninety-six rods of land situated at the intersection of Eiginstreet and Olive-street, West Maitland. The plain-street and Olive-street, West Maitland. The plain-street and olive-street, West Maitland. The plain-street and conveysneer, and had advanced money to the defendant, who had deposited with him the deeds of the land in question. The land had been subsequently sold by the defendant to Mr. Green, and reconveyed to the defendant by Mr. Green. After this the land was sold by the Sheriff, and the plaintiff was the purchaser. It was proposed to put in evidence the judgment bargain and sale from the Sheriff to the plaintiff; but this was objected to on the part of the defendant on the ground that the Sheriff and no power by deed to convey the defendants interest in the land, but had only power to compel the execution debtor to join him in the execution of a conveyance. His Honor said that although titles of this kind had often been before the courts, this argument had never in his recollection been submitted. He therefore suggested that a verdict should be entered by consent, reserving power to move for a nonsuit to be entered. A verdict for the plaintiff was accordingly taken by consent, reserving power to move for a nonsuit to be entered. A verdict for the plaintiff was accordingly taken by consent, reserving power to have for a nonsuit to be entered. CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

SATURDAY.

Before Ceptain Scott, Mr. Cook, Mr. Warburton, Mr. Cullen, Mr. G. Hill, Mr. Asher.

Seven drunkards were fined 10s, each; failing to pay, to spend twenty-four hours in the cells.

Malcolm Melville Macdorald was brought before the Bench by Chief Inspector Higgins, who yesterday afternoon apprehended him—a warrant for that purpose having bean granted on a charge of having assaulted the Rev. Dr. Lang. The clerk of the Court having read the information on which the warrant was granted, the Rev. John Dunmore Lang. D.D., deposed that, about noon yesterday I was walking up Hunter-street toward George-street, and when nearly at the top of the street a tall stout gentleman, the defendant, crossed over to me and saked if my name was Dr. Lang; I replied, that is my name; he immediately, without a word of either explanation or accusation, began to belabour ms with a horsewhip which he had in his hand, striking three or four fierce blows across my upper arm, near the shoulder, of which the marks are still visible; while engaged in this operation, which was very suddenly done, he told me that I knew what it was for, and he concluded by making a fierce blow at my forehead with either his fist or the handle of his whilp, and knocked in the front of my hat, and told me, in conclusion, that if I had not been an old man he would have given me more or much more; he then said "you know who I am;" I then asked his name, for I never had to my knowledge seen him before; he bystanders picked up and gave to me, and I found that the name of the gentleman was Malcolm Helville Macdonald; that is all that occurred. Mr. Iceton (who with Mr. Cory was present on behalf of defendant) cross-examined Dr. Lang:—I felt the blow on my forehead through the hat; if he daintended to hit me on the head he could as easily have struck me I saw the card I knew who he was—a person with there as on the arms; for I offered no resistance; when I saw the card I knew who he was—a person with here son the head he could as easily most flagrant case. (Mr. Iceton was here, as well as two or three times afterwards stopped by the Benchthey were unanimously of opinion, that the only question for them was, whether an assault had been committed by Captain Macdonald upon Dr. Lang, and not whether Dr. Lang had written or published anything true or false of Captain Macdonald. 'Some questions, however, were answered by Dr. Lang, which their worships considered objectionable, because [irrelevant. Mr. Cory submitted, that in order to a proper investigation of the charge, their worships should receive as much evidence as would in the case of a committal be admissible before a jury, not for the purpose of excusing the assault, but for a mitigation of punishment). At the moment when the first blow was inflicted, its truck me that a letter I had caused to be published in the Empire might have given rise to the attack, and that my assailant must be—the gentleman before the Court; I think it is an abuse of terms to use any word in connection with Christianity in reference to such a transaction as that to which my letter had reference; I was out of town from the 16th March until yesterday morning, and of course until yesterday morning he had no opportunity of seeing me subsequently to the publication of my letter, which appeared after I had left town; I did say to the bystenders, after the assault, that no harm was done that is, I felt the pain of the blovs, but I felt myself by no means degraded or humiliated by an attack from such a person, whose anger I had incurred in defence of virtue; I should have no objection to state this facts out of which I believe the assault arose, except that I might thereby seem to admit that defendant was right in resorting to the course he did, while the law is as open to him as to me if he considered himself wronged; the simple fact is, that I was attacked in a public street, in an unjust and bruta indefence of virtue; I should have no objection to state the law is as open to him as to me if he considered in a fender of t placed myself in such circumstances as those in which Captain Macdonald has placed himself, I should have considered myself beyond the pale of moral society; I cannot conceive of myself in such circumstances, nor say what, had I been in Captain Macdonald's place under similar circumstances, I should have done; I am satisfied that there was nothing in my letter to the Empire that was not warranted by the published facts of the particular case to which it had reference, nor, considering the position in which Captain Macdonald had voluntarily placed himself, anything at which he should have been annoyed. John Fletcher, of George-street, gave evidence corroborative of the assault with a whip, but concerning the blow at Dr. Lang's head, spoke of it as knocking the hat over his [Dr. Lang's leveys. This closed the case, and Mr. Iceton addressed the Bench for the defence, admitting that an assault had been committed, but of such a trifling nature that their worships should deal summarily with it. Nor was there snything in the relative position of the parties to call for the interference of a higher court in reference to the assault; in point of station they were equals, although in regard to character they might be rather contrasted than compared. Their worships committed defendant for trial, admitting him to bail for his appearance.

Henry Dalgarno was committed to take his trial on the fourth charge—that of stealing a watch and chain, the property of one Ward. The other cases will not be a wearened.

James J. M'Gann was found guilty of having personnted a policeman, threatening to apprehend a female named Fahey (on what charge did not appear), unless she gave him the sum of £5, and was sentenced to pay a penalty of 40s, or to be imprisoned foorteen days.

Thomas Severn and William Page, labourers, who had been given into the custody of constable Johnson for fighting on board the Star of Peace, were found guilty, and fined 10s. each.

William Plew and Frederick Anderson, of the Castle Howard, and Henry Deverell, of the Borne, were each sent to gaol for ten weeks, on conviction of desertion from their respective ships.

Michael Hunt, found drunk in the streets, and Elizabeth Andrews, for using obscene language in Harrington-street, were fined 10s. each; in default of payment to be imprisoned for twenty-four hours.

Patrick Allen, an aged man, having no home or occupation, who, late last night, had been found lying in a verandsh in Charlotte-place, was brought before the Court for protection. He was ordered to find sureties for his good behaviour for one month, but in default was committed to prison for that term.

Ellen Moore, convicted of having used insulting language towards Francis Smith, was fined 10s. with costs.

RICHMONO RIVER HEADS, 21st MARCH.—A correspondent says:—We have ten vessels here now ready for sen, with about 500,000 feet of cedar. South-east winds have kept them for some time. We have had heavy rains, causing a flood in the creeks where the cedar is brought down to deep water in the river; but the water so soon rising, and suddenly falling has not brought a very large quantity out. Owing to the low price of cedar for some time past, many haye reason to belglad the flood did not last longer. It is now selling at 6s. with double the labour and expense attached.

Shoalhaven.—Things here begin to improve, and, in a very short time, I hope to see Shoalhaven itself again. But to perfect this much is to be done, and well and wisely done, by our Plood Relief Committee. I have been informed that the mayor has received a very handsome sum from Ulladulla, being the amount raised there on behalf of sufferers. Mr. Moss, I hear, has traced the gold at Dangera Creek to a gully upwards. He brought a nice sample of gold in with him, but returns to his camp to-morrow, as he walked to Shoalhaven after his horses; which managed to get away from him. He is very silent and cautious in giving information, but, I suppose, we shall hear from him in about a week. He intends to do his best to discover a payable gold-field. Dangera Creek is only twenty-five miles from Shoalhaven. Some parties found gold at one point or bar in the creek several years since, but many have tried to trace it without success. The country in this direction has, Mr. Moss informed me, every indication of an extensive gold-field. Ranges of granite, quartz ridges, and vertical slate, traversed by bands of quartz and iron stone. This country forms an extensive valley, watered by numerous tributary creeks of the Shoalhaven, and extending from the back of Burria south to Nerriga, a distance of about twenty miles. The country here is very much broken, consisting of high mountains and deep gullies, with fragments of rom the nature of the country, he will yet discover gold-diggings in this direction. What a pity Mr. Clarke, the geologist, when he visited our district, was not induced to inspect this part of Shoalhaven. The Coorang diggings, I hear, have turned out a failure. I have inspected some very fine nuggets from this locality, and cannot account for "this freak of nature," in so encouraging and then disappointing the hopes of the gold-seeker. Mr. Alexander Berry, accompanied by his brothers—Messers. David and William Berry—inspected the Shoalhaven. The Coorang help and the disappointing the hopes of the gold-seeker. Another Rebel Captured—Feroz Bukht, brother of Bahadoor Shah, the ex-king of Delhi, was brought into Lucknow in custody on the 3rd January. He appeared in miserable plight, with a few odds and ends of articles of convenience in his little shabby doolee—amongst the articles being an old plated dish cover. He complained much of having being deprived of everything respectable and valuable, and announced his former dignity with a lachrymose face. Thenatives who gathered around him greatly commiserated his fallen condition.

The Coolies,—The coolies of the Madras Presidency owe a debt of gratitude to Sir Charles Trevelyan for having given the final blow to the system of compulsary labour, and relieved the native population from a great oppression. Our contemporaries at Madras, we observe, approve of the reform, feding convinced that a steady adherence to the new scheme, of inviting voluntary labour on proper terms, will bring about a satisfactory state of affairs such sconer than opponents of it expect. We observe, too, that the same Government has declined to sanction a scheme, proposed by the Ceylon Government, for a supply of labour to be drawn from the continent of India.—Hukaru, Januing letter from a correspondent with the Governor-General's Camp, gives a vivid description of the entry late Oumbals:—"Umballa:—

the Crown had beaten paths to save one of its brightest jewels, there the cherished guns, seldom fired, but always ready to be, which kept the great morthern road with its provinces spreading further and wider than many a European kingdom, intact, and which enabled the band before Delhi to strike that blow which sent the Bengal Tiger crouching to the feet of the British Lion ! ('There's a roar for you!') Preceded by tuck of drum and many a flourish of brazen instruments, came the man whom the Queen delighteth to honour, most gorgeously attired and splendidly mounted, surrounded by a staff of chiefs of lesser magnitude; but so far as regarded their looks of importance, little short of his own—glittering with the choicest embroidery and the costliest ornaments of Ind—of stately mind and noble presence, he looked the very impersonation of the man who had sworn fealty, to his lege lady, and who had kept his vow. Good luck to him! He passed the usual guard of honour just before they reached the point at which the guard of honour, to succeed that which had escorted the Governor-General to Umballa, was formed up. The 7th Hussars were on the right of the road, and right well they looked. The whole force, and although in point of display they were entirely thrown into the shade by their barbaric neighbours, there was the 'very age and body of the time.' Muscle and sinew men who had served in all climes, and who had scattered—the finger of Providence disposing—those deluded hosts who sought to 'rail upon the Lord's annointed.' The waving plumes and the glittering appointments of the squadrons and companies which had accompanied the vice-regal minister upon his march, surrounded by the sabres and guns of the men who drew their fame from Leipzic and its great fountain-head Blenkeim, and Ramillies, need hadly here be mentioned. Here, close to our left, the guns were fired; there, away miles and miles, among the cliffs and caves, among nullahs and the water courses, the sound careering down their now dried beds, and away higher and higher till the pinnacles of the great mountains steeped in cloudy mist sent back the echo to us. Well! the martial cortege passed us. The plain man who holds the destiny of the great Eastern Empire in his hand rides by, on his right the cynosure of all eyes, the Rajah of Pattialla. Mind you, there was in all this display nothing wanting, to show that all the amenities of life, and that of the most endearing description, were being carried on among all classes. There were no lack of enamoured pairs of elephants (most unloverlike carrying animals, but carrying them notwithstanding,) curricles and pairs of horses, and turtle doves, and even camel drawn "what's his name," call them what name you may, were there in shoals. We even saw sable beauties, in landaus and four, whose tittering, and whose glances showed that if not pleased with their equipage they were with the throng that surrounded them. CHINA.

By the Alfred the Great we have papers from Hongkong to the 11th of February, being thirty-five days later than previous advices.

The China Chronicle of that date announces that Mr. Lay has just returned from Swatow, after establishing the new maritime Customs there, it is presumed, under the American flag.

The same gentleman, was shortly to start for Fuhchau, to set agoing the same institution at that port, and Amoy will be the next to be brought under the same organisation. By all accounts (says the Chronicle) the latter place required some change; the present system there could not be worse-indeed it has become so corrupt and offensive an administration that there has been a long demand for the introduction of the new system, under the immediate control of the Europeans. We think it is very likely that, after a fair trial, and the heads of the department use the large powers with which they are invested discreetly, there will be less antipathy to the system. As an experiment, we are disposed to give it a fair and impartial trial, although there are some anomalies connected with the working of the scheme that we cannot casily become reconciled to. At Shanghae we are informed it has become an admirable and popular institution. The Chronicle states that his Excellency the Governor has acceded to an application made to him by the Acting Chief Justice, and has notified to Mr. Tarrant, of the North Chian Mail, that in compliance therewith he has remitted one half of the term of imprisonment awarded to him in the recent trial for libel on a Government official. This has been done in consequence of a representation made by the Acting Chief Justice to his Excellency some months.

of imprisonment awarded to him in the recent trial for libel on a Government official. This has been done in consequence of a representation made by the Acting Chief Justice to his Excellency some months ago, that had he been aware of the nature of the imprisonment which Mr. Tarrant was to undergo, his sentence would have been for a much shorter term than that which was given. The Governor adopted the suggestion without the slightest hesitation.

The papers announce that an unsuccessful attempt had been made, by some unknown miscreants, to gain a foi cible entry into Government House, for purposes of plunder. Hongkong (adds the Ohronicel), with a policeman at every corner, is likely to become a flourishing colony, midnight depredators and daylight plunderers seeming to have a fine time of it.

We have received files of the North China Herald to the 4th February. That journal remarks, concerning the North and Japan:—Uncertain accounts still continue to be received relative to the progress made in our intercourse with Japan. The extensive commerce with Negasaki, which at one time bid fair to become to foreigners of the utmost importance, is gradually dwindling away, owing much to the great feudal nobility, whose hestility to foreigners it is suspected is the reason, and their influence is sufficiently effective to cause our relations with that country to receive a severe check. As our diplomatic relations become more and more unsatisfactory, with the exception of at Yokohama, which seems to flourish despite the treaty, as we receive disastrous accounts of fire, storms, and shipwreeks being of frequent occurrence; shocks of earthquakes very revendent and feers or shocks of earthquakes very revendent and received as a se and more unsatisfactory, with the exception of at Yokohama, which seems to flourish despite the treaty, so we receive disastrous accounts of fire, storms, and shipwrecks being of frequent occurrence; shocks of earthquakes very prevalent, and fears are entertained that if they continue there is not a substantial house but what will be somewhat injured or entirely razed—for the effects of an earthquake are far more to be dreaded than the ravages of fire. The deficiency in honesty and instability of the national character of the Japanese in our relations with Kanagawa, is a fact fully established by the short history of this important port; some allowances must be made for them, as the Japanese have experienced great difficulties on the opening out of their country to the world, but their inadequacy to meet the new order of things, when well aware of the forthcoming event, implies a dilatoriness reprehensible in the extreme. Many of their complaints against the foreigners have been proved unjustifiable, or excusable as but trifling, and the unlawfulness in the export of copangs, with which they were charged, is at once contradicted by Article X. of the treaty signed by Lord Elgin, which distinctly agrees to the freedom in trade of gold and all coins except Japanese copper cash; the clamour raised about their not having been entered at the Customhouse showed a puerility and unfaithfulness in the Japanese officials, which deserves both pity and blume, as there was no duty on their export, and the renson for their not having been passed through the Customhouse showed a puerility and unfaithfulness in the sellers, as by the shuffling the officials had prohibited any of their subjects from selling to the foreigners, themselves directly and voluntarily flying in the face of the treaty. There is an unfairness in one of the stipulations of the treaty, wherein we have an immediate advantage; and to show that the nature of our policy is pregnant with naught but fair dealing, we should have it immediately rectified. In this

Chinese Government found obnoxious. The Herald gives a graphic account of Hwa-sha-na's antecedents, which we copy verbatim:—"Hwa-sha-na was a Mongol and a member of the Yellow banner. During the twelfth year of Taoukwang he became a member of the Hanlin college. He passed all his official career in the capital till employed with Kweiliang in the Tientsin treaty. His-first post was Vice-President of the Military Board. He was afterwards removed to the Civil Board as Vice-president, and subsequently from the Civil Board to the Foreign and Colonial Office as Vice-president. During the sixth year of Heenfung he was promoted to be assistant president of the Board of Works. In the eighth year of Heenfung he was appointed to the Civil Board as assistant president. On the 17th day of the fourth moon of the eighth year of Heenfung he was commissioned with Kweiliang to proceed to Tien-tsin to settle foreign affairs with Lord Elgin, H. B. M. Tlenipotentiary. During the seventh moon of that year he was commissioned to repair, in company with Kweiliang, to Shanghae to settle the British-tariff and regulation of trade. He reached Shanghae on the 4th of October, 1888. On the 13th June, 1859, he started from Shanghae for Peking, having been nine months at Shanghae and Soochow. At the latter place he reached Peking on the 20th of July, and had an audience of the Emperor. Hwa-sha-na died on the 30th December, 1860, sged fifty-five years. He has let one son, Hekae. He had the reputation of being an able functionary." en able functionary."

Writing to the China Chronicle, from Shanghae, on the 4th of February, the correspondent of that journal says:—

The Imperial Government is sorely pressed, perplexed, and vexed, and with good and sufficient reason. It is pressed, perplexed, and vexed by its own functionaries, in their dereliction of official duties, and by its own people in their open rebellion. Many tens of its officers are out of their places, and millions of its subjects have renounced their allegiance. The Red Book presents a melancholy spectacle, hundreds of its pages being deformed or defective in the non-filling up of the official stations throughout the empire; the names of the places and the offices are there, but the names of the incumbents (or of those who should be, or would be if all were right) are wanting.

The Government of Hienting was never more at its

The storm-cloud, which some twelve years ago, rose in the suth not bigger than a man's hand, has now, after hanging so long over the central provinces, gathered blackness again, and lowers heavily, and seems to be extending both towards the north and the west, creating alarm among all the officials, and especially among those who are near his majesty.

It is known, on the best "Mandarin authority," which, however, is never above suspicion, except when it does not tell against itself, that Chang-man and the Nieh-fi have banded together in the province of Nganhwui, and are in force advancing into the province of Homan; while the former, also in force, and under the generalship of one of their original and most popular leaders, are moving towards the west and not far from the banks of the Great River. Whether Hung Sintainen is still living, and whether there be any connection or alliance between him and Shih Taikai, the cabinet ministers are at a loss to determine. Under such circumstances all manner of rumours got abroad, and the alaim spreads alike among the people and the rulers. The worst is yet to be told. Much as the Emperor and his Ministers may be pressed, perplexed, and vexed by these domestic or internal disorders, the greater grievances and anxieties are caused to them by outside barbarians, by the Ngo-kwoh Zhin at the north, and by the Ying-Fah-kwoh in the east. The victory at Taku, and the sudden withdrawal of the Ying-Fah-kwoh in the sudden withdrawal of the Ying-Fah-kwoh rulers with strange, and mixed emotions. Every possible effort is made to ascertain what the English and French will do, or intend to do. Even the Mongolian general is troubled about these far-travelled foreigners, and has sent some of his confidentials to the south to sound the deep waters, and, if possible, find out whether the allies will keep the peace or make war.

the south to sound the deep waters, and, if possible, find out whether the allies will keep the peace or make war.

There are, here in the north, some Chinese who take a very dispassionate view of this matter, and who divide the blame, declaring that both the foreigners and the Chinese officers have not done as they ought, that the Chinese officers were too slow and the foreigners too hasty. This declaration is true, no doubt, and well will it be for both parties, if, in the future, they will mend their ways,—the Chinese officers accelerate their slow-coach, and the foreigners hold in their steeds. In times like these it would be good and safe for all to exercise "patience," the Chinese officials studying the Chung Yung of Confucius, and the foreigners their "Golden Rule."

The gage of war, so far as I can learn, is with the foreigners, the Emperor wishing still to abide by the letter and spirit of the treatice, which are regarded by him as only in abeyance, and not as abrogated. His Ministers are divided, however, and in extremities he will be ruled by them, and they by circumstances.

Pressing, perplexing and vexting as these "complications" are to the Imperial mind and the minds of his councillors, the advances of the Russians on the north, to say the least, are equally exciting, and with equal reason. All the witches and wizards and wise men in the land will scarcely be able to extricate the Government unscathed from these fires advancing upon all sides. The Russians of the old empire, come what may, have little to fear or to lose, but everything to gain. The rebel chiefs are in like condition, and it is their chief object to turn the empire upside down and destroy the Mantchau Governments. But it is far otherwise with the others, the English and the French, whose best interests will be secured by securing the stability of the powers that be, only bringing them to book to abide by and maintain the treaties of Tientsin. Hie labor est.

The Shantung and Tientsin people, of all ranks, are for peace, though the

A telegram has been received from Batavia, stating that the Dutch expedition to Boni had defeated the Bugis, after a sharp but decisive engagement. The loss on the side of the Dutch was small. It was thought that there would be very little, if any, further opposition, and that the Queen would be replaced on the Boni throne by some other member of the royal family more amenable to reason. The mail steamer, hourly expected, will probably supply us with particulars.—Singapore Free Press, December 19th.

By the Dutch mail steamer we have Java papers to the 24th ultimo.

The particulars of the operations against Boni will be found below.

The accounts from Banjermassing are favourable. A telegram from Palembang, dated the 16th ultimo, states that the leader of the last disturbances in Lematangulu, Pangeran, Tanjong Siri, was surprised on the night of the 11th by a party of police, and lost his life in the scuffle which ensued. Several of his followers were also killed on this occasion.

While a tree was being out in the Meko-Moko division in the residency of Beneoolen, for the purpose of obtaning gutta percha, a climbing or slinging plant attached to this tree was also cut through. A quantity of milky fluid flowed from it, which on being boiled yielded an elastic substance. This was readily bought by the traders at Beneoolen for sixty to sixty-five Java rupees picul. The plant is called ahar gitam, and is found all over the Moko-Moko division. (A climbing or slinging plant which is found in Penang and elsewhere, yields very good indiarubber. We regret to learn that a telegram was vesterder

We regret to learn that a telegram was yesterday received from Batavis, conveying very bad news from Banjermassing. It is stated that the the Onrust, a small steamer belonging to the Dutch Government, has been cut off by the natives, and thirty-eight Europeans, who were on board, murdered. The Onrust was one of the steamers employed in conducting the operations against the insurgents, and from her small draught of water was peculiarly fitted for proceeding up the rivers. A number of expeditions were lately undertaken in different directions again the insurgents, who were still holding out in remote districts, and it must have been in the course of one of these expeditions that this disaster occurred. It is fortunate that the Boni campaign has been brought to such a speedy and decisive termination, as the Dutch Government will be enabled to send to Banjermassing such a force as will enable it to act with greater vigour and more adequate means in that quarter than has hitherto been the case since the outbreak there.—Singapore Fres Press, January 12.

CALIFORNIA.

We have news from San Francisco to the 31st of January.

The Daily National gives the following items of news by the overland mail from St. Louis:—A horrible murder in cold blood was perpetrated near Dallas, Polk county, on the night of 12th January, Matthew Morse, formerly of California, had interfered, it appears, in the domestic affairs of. George Harper, to an extent that produced a separation between the latter and his wife. Subsequently Harper and his wife became reconciled. It appears, according to an account in the Salem Statesmar, that on the 12th instant, Morse and several other men were at Harper's house, when, after some exciting talk, Harper ordered Morse to leave, presenting a gun at him, and threatening to shoot him if he ever came on his premises again. Morse listened very calmly, and on going away told Harper it would be well for him to leave immediately. He then tried to borrow's gun from several persons, but was refused, and was advised to let Harper alone. In the evening he succeeded in getting a gun, by representing that he was going a hunting. He then went to Harper's house and whistled. The door was opened by an old man, who lived there with Harper. Morse said his name was Ross, and he wanted to know the way to Tharp's mill. The old man replied: "I know you, your name is Morse, and you had better leave here." He then shut the door; and almost immediately afterwards Harper fell dead from a shot through the window. There were four or five men in the house, but they were all afraid of Morse, who had been drinking and had quarrelled with them. Morse then went to his own house, and induced one or two individuals to go up to Harper's. Afterwards he went back; and whatled at the door. One of the men is more and at the door of the men earned out and told him Harper was badly hurt, but would not tell him how badly. Morse went home again, and was arrested on next morning, as he was getting up from bed. The people in the neighbourhood were all afraid of Morse, and made no effort to arre

The particulars of this entestrophe are derived from the Humboid Jimes of Ith and St January.

On Thurday, January 5th, at five p.m., quick reports of eannon were heard at Humboid Bay. At the p.m., quick reports of eannon were heard at Humboid Bay. At the colook at night Caputin Bukno left with his stosm-tug and a few passengers in earch of the vessel supposed to be in distress. On his roturn from Cape Mendecina, on the next morning, he discovered the wreek of a steamer high and dry on the beach, nine miles below the cape. Many persons were seen on the shore, but he was unable to communicate with these, and the arrived at Humboid Bay again on the morning of the 6th. The stoamer Columbin having meanwhile came into port, Cappiain Dail departed immediately for the Northerner, cemmanded by his brother, Captial Wr. fo. Lable. On the same often son, Mr. lowman, the purser of the Northerner, arrived at Bucksport. He reported that the Northerner struck a lidden rock between Buint's Rect and Capplemedoine, about five o'clock p.m., and was found to be sinking fast. Captial Dail at once headed for the shore and benche the steamer about six miles above the mouth of Bear River, and one mile below Centreville. A line was got ashore, and many of the passengers succeeded in early ghemental and many of the passengers succeeded in early ghemental and the ladies except two were taken aboard of the first beat, which were discounted that the steamer article the shore. MONDAY, APRIL 2, 1860. \

AT the present juncture, when so much interest at the present juncture, when so much interest attaches to the prospect of the opening up of a communication with Europe by way of the Central American isthmus, all information as to the different methods proposed of effecting the transit of that isthmus is acceptable. Long before the discovery of gold in California, and when the isthmus was crossed chiefly to accommo-America, Panama was the spot selected for isthmus is at its narrowest point, and the mountain ridge dips to its lowest elevation. And so when a railway became necessary, it followed pretty nearly the established mule track, and hence the phrase "the Panama route' become confirmed as descriptive generally of the transit of the isthmus. It is quite possible, however, and even probable, that in a ew years this designation will give way to another. It does not follow that the place where the isthmus was first crossed, or could be most cheaply crossed, should afford permanently the best route; other undertakings of a more elaborate and costly nature may ultimately to afford the greatest amount of pub-lic convenience. That this is likely to be the case, has been strongly impressed on our minds by an examination of the maps and plans and which we have lately had an opportunity of inspecting. This line of transit scems to possess many special advantages, which promise to make it when completed the preferable route for the Australian traffic, and in that case we shall some day cease to talk of "the Panama route," and substitute the phrase "the Honduras

This line of railway, which has been carefully surveyed and laid out throughout its entire length, lies exclusively within the territory of Honduras, so that there is no complication arising from having to negotiate with two conterminous powers, as is the case with the Nicaragua line. The direction of the route is nearly north and south across the isthmus, and in a tolerably straight line. It follows up the valley of one river to the summit level, and descends the valley of another to the opposite coast. A height of two thousand eight hundred feet has to be attained to cross nundred teet has to be attained to cross the range; but as the ascent is steady, this is accomplished, even on the steepest side of the range, without any gradient quite so bad as one in fifty—a degree of incline which has been admitted in the Victorian railways, and which is now-a-days easily and constantly overcome by lecomotives.

The climate of Honduras is not objectionable,

The more elevated portions especially are habit—able comfortably by persons of European constitution. The soil of the valleys is described as remarkably fertile, while to Captain W. L. Darie, which counterfully and promptly. Mr. O'Neal, chief enginer, was the main succeeded in getting the line suborc. Captain Dail asked his esting and the sould land a heat! He resided. "I will try." He theek the caustice would be refored the product of the product adapted for pasture land. The railway would therefore pass through country that would be permanently occupied by an industrious and settled population. The Government, in granting a concession to the promoters of the company, have made a donation of large tracts of land on either side of the proposed line, on which immigrant settlers will be located, so that the colonisation of the district will be rapidly promoted. The neutrality of the line has been guaranteed by a special convention between Great Britain, France, and the United States, by which those three great Powers jointly undertake to protect the railway from any intervention from any quarter. The local Government also binds itself not to impose any transit dues such as have been so vexatiously imposed by the New Grenadian Government in the case of the Parame Paillers and the little would be the parame Paillers and the latest that the case of the Parame Paillers and the little would be the parame Paillers and the little would be the parame Paillers and the proposed in the parame Paillers and the proposed in the parame Paillers and the proposed in the proposed in the parame Paillers and the proposed in by the New Grenadian Government in the case of the Panama Railway, and which have proved such a hindrance to the cheap and easy transit of mails and passengers. And the company binds itself to fix its tariff of fares at the lowest possible rate, with a view to induce the largest and most extended business by this route, so that there will be no such extortionate charge as ten pounds for a passenger and his baggage. The ports at either end of the line are declared free ports, and all merchandise transmitted across the isthmus for reshipment is guaranteed to be freed from all annoying interference by the local Custom-house authorities. The charter to the company indicates throughout a bona fide desire on the part of the Honduras Government to give every facility to the company, and in case of dispute it is agreed that all questions shall be referred to arbitration.

At both ends of the line there is the invaluable accommodation of good harbours. The Gulf of Fonseca, on the Pacific, would accommo-date the navies of the world; and ships of the largest tonnage can go alongside wharves in smooth water to land passengers and cargo, and so avoid the delay of being dependent on small steamers and lighters. On the Atlantic small steamers and lighters. On the Atlantic side, Puerto Caballos, though not on so magnificent a scale, is still a well protected harbour and can be greatly enlarged by connecting it with a deep and capacious salt water lagoon close at hand.

ose at hand. The Gulf of Fonseca is as near to Port Jackson as Panama is, so that the distance across the Pacific would not be increased by dopting this route. On the Atlantic side ther are some special conveniences. A short trip across the Gulf of Mexico would land the traveller at Charlotte Harbour in Florida, from which point there is continuous railway commu-nication to New York, Boston, and Portland, and this will be continued before long to Halifax. By this means, therefore, a supplementary mail, corresponding to that by way of Marseilles, could be easily forwarded to meet the main steamer at Honduras, and the time of transit between Honduras, and the time of transit between London and Sydney reduced considerably below that now occupied by the Suez route.

It is calculated that the Honduras Railway could be completed within three years from the date of its commencement, as the works on it will not be heavy, except a cutting at the sum-mit. With the abundance of capital now accumulating in London it is not likely that any long time will intervene before an adequate amount of it will be attracted to an investmen that promises so well. And the completion of the undertaking will be a great gain for all the settlements on the east coast of Australia.

With respect to these total amounts, it must be observed, that they represent the assessment which was payable, not what was actually received, at the Treasury before the end of each year. The Comparative Statement of the Con-solidated Revenue of the Colony is published annually, on the 4th of January, and, therefore, a large balance is alway due from the distant districts for the current year, which when paid in, is carried to the next year's account.

Gross TotalsRuns 6388 £236,740 19 7

The above returns shew a gross total for the last two years of £236,740 19s. 7d., whilst the Treasurer's statement shews receipts to the 31st of December ultimo, to the amount of £223,331
15s. 10d. A balance, therefore, of £13,409
3s. 9d. remains, which will be included in the present year's assessment in the Treasurer's next statement.

It may be of interest to notice, in this place, the rise and fluctuating progress of the system of assessing stock in our pastoral districts.

In 1847, the Act 22 Vict., No. 18, was passed to authorise, for a limited time, an assessment upon stock pastured beyond the settled districts of New South Wales. The preamble set forth the necessity for making propreamble set forth the necessity for making pro-vision for the protection and good government of all persons residing in those districts, and the expediency, therefore, of raising and levying an assessment upon all stock pastured within their boundaries; the rates being for every sheep one halfpenny, for every head of horned cattle one penny, halfmenny, and penny half-penny, and for every horse three-pence; and every stockholder was enjoined, under a pennity of not less than forty shillings, nor exceeding £50, to make a true and faithful return of the number of sheep, cattle, and horses pastured by him. The Act was to come into operation on the 31st of 1988. and norses pastured by him. The Act was to come into operation on the 31st of December, 1847, and to continue in force for five years. It accordingly expired, by fluxion of time, on the 31st of December, 1852, and the assessment system remained in abeyance until 1856, when, by the Act 19 Vict. No. 26, it was resumed; the acts being for shear one half-converge. by the Act 19 Vict. No. 26, it was resumed; the rates being, for sheep one halfpenny per head, and threepence for both horses and horned cattle. The continuance of this Act was limited to one year, at the end of which it was revived for twelve months longer, and then expired, 31st of December, 1857.

It had been found, from the first practical initiation of the system in 1848, that the assessing, by Commissioners, the number of sheep and oattle led to numberless disputes between them and the stockholders. The former were charged with favouritism to their friends, and unfairness to those with whom they were not on terms; whilst, on the other hand, they accused the squatters with vexations opposition to their authority, and with failing to render true and faithful accounts of the number of their sheep and cattle; and, in the session of 1858, a new and cattle; and, in the session of 1808, a new system of assessment was adopted which promises to prevent disputes, as to amounts of rates, between the Government and the squatters.

By the Act 22 Vic., No. 27, it is provided, that a yearly assessment shall be payable, according to the estimated grazing capabilities of each run. By this simple mode of fixing the amount, unpleasant litigation will be avoided, and in addition to this, the spirit of monopoly, so long complained of, in respect to large squatters ronting extensive runs without the intention of depasturing any stock upon them, until at their own convenience, will receive a wholesome check. Whether their runs are stocked, or not, they will be declared by competent authority to be capable of carrying so many stocked, or not, they will be declared by competent authority to be capable of carrying so many sheep at an assessment of £7 10s. per thousand, or their 'equivalent in cattle, and the amount will be demanded accordingly.'

The following return shows the amount of assessment received during those years that the several Acts were in force.

The late Mysterious Death at Campellizown,—The adjourned inquest on the body of a man named Morrow, who recently died at Campbelliown under very suspicious circumstances, was held on Saturday last, at the Court-house, at Campbelliown. It will be remembered that the inquest was adjourned on the 19th ultime, in order to obtain a chemical report from Messrs. Norrie and Watt upon the condition of the stomach and intestines of the unfortunate man. Mr. Norrie stated at the inquest on Saturday that he and Mr. Watt had examined by the colour test and also by the taste, the stomach, intestines, and a portion of the liver of the deceased, and that they had found strychnine in the liver, but not sufficient to show a crystalline form in the microscope. The evidence given by Dr. Bell, who had examined the deceased immediately after death, was, that he could not state of strychnine or from natural causes, never having before met with a case of the same kind. The jury thereupon found that there was not sufficient evidence for the committal of the woman who had been living with the deceased, and who had been apprehended on a charge of murder, and she was accordingly discharged from custody. Business is almost suspended to-day, owing to the arrival of his Excellency and Lady Macdonnell by the Havilah. The steamer arrived at Port Adelaide at eleven a.m., when the Portonions turned out in great numbers to welcome the Governor and Lady, and made a most effective display. Their reception in town was most enthusiastic. The Volunteers, mustering strong wave attrioused on each side of the readtown was most enthusiastic. The Volunteers, mustering strong, were stationed on each side of the road leading to Government House, and presented arms as his Excellency passed through them. They afterwards went through their evolutions with great credit. The inhabitants of Adelaide were also assembled en mane, and the demonstration to welcome Lady Macdonnell, who is a great frequently with a great through their evolutions. who is a great favourite with all here, was truly

THE RIOT OF MATLAND.

The following particulars, in addition to what we published on Saturday, appear in the Maitland Mercury:—

On Thursday afternoon considerable numbers of Catholics came into town froin the neighbourhood around, and the whole matter caused great excitement; the whole of the available police force being also stationed in West Maitland for that evening. Before describing what followed we may state that we have heard many accounts, all varying, and that while we shall doubtless not be able to avoid errors, they will probably be rectified in the publication of the police cases that will arise out of the transaction. Mr. M'Intyre, who lives near East Maitland, came to the church with his family, as usual, in his carriage, about dusk. The street and the yard had long before been filled by an excited crowd, and Mr. M'Intyre, had but just allighted, in the yard, when blows were made at him, of which only one, we believe, took effect, and he succeeded in escaping from his assailants into the High School, adjoining. His brother, Mr. Donald M'Intyre, who was with him, was not so fortunate; he was many times struck, and followed for a considerable distance down the yard, but ultimately he also escaped into the High School premises. Mrs. M'Intyre, and by abow, but not much hurt. The coachman was struck once or twice, with walking sticks apparently, and was hurt, but managed to escape to the school premises. The crowd shortly after made an attempt on the carriage itself; but the police, who did not seem to have been in any force on this very spot (although scattered about the locality; but he scon arrived on the spot, and exerted himself in trying to prevent further outrage. After the lapse of a considerable sime, the crowd, which had been very noisy and threatening all the time, and whose numbers were computed at nearly a thousand (of whom only a portion appeared active), made an attempt on the carriage isself; but the police, who did not receive with the believe had a number of panes of glass in the two

Cononen's Inquest.—The inquest on the body of an infant, named Mary Ann Smith, commenced at the gaol at Darlinghurst on Friday, was resumed, and concluded on Saturday. It appeared from the evidence that the deceased was born in the gaol in December last, its mother, Mary Ann Williamson, being then a confince undergoing a sentence for drunkenness. She was discharged a few days afterwards; and on the 14th of the same month the mother and infant were admitted into the Benevolent Asylum. On the 7th of January, the mother, at her own request, was discharged with the infant from the establishment; seven days afterwards she came back and was again admitted; a few days after this she was discharged with Lohence nesistent. tablishment; seven days afterwards she came back-and was again admitted; a few days after this she-was discharged by direction of Mr. Johnson, assistant secretary, for the purpose of taking out a summons for the alleged father of the infant (the infant-being illegitimate), in order to compel him to contribute tewards the infant's support; she did not return to the Asylum again. On the 22nd January the mother was apprehended on a charge of unlaw-fully assaulting the deceased. The apprehending constable stated that save aware informed him that contribute teweres the maint's support; sinc an any the mother was apprehended on a charge of unlawfully assaulting the deceased. The apprehending constable stated that some women informed him that the woman was in Clarence-street throwing the child up in the air and eatching it as itsfell; he went and found her, but did not see her treating the infant improperly at that time; he followed her into Kentstreet, and saw her there throwing the infant up as described; he apprehended her, and the next day she was sentenced to be imprisoned for three months for the offence. When returned to gaol the infant was found to be in a worse condition than when it left. It was thinly clad, dirty, and appeared to have been neglected. Dr. West saw it the same night, and gave directions for treating it. It never rallied, but continued to grow worse, and expired on last Thursday morning. Mesenteric disease was the immediate cause of death. The deceased was weak and sickly from its birth; it was born before it had arrived at maturity, and evidently suffered from hereditary disease consequent on the vicious conduct of one or both of its parents. It would appear that Dr. West was, from the first, of opinion that the infant would not survive. The child was fed by hand on milk and arrowroot, the mother having no nourishment of her own to offer it. Verdict: died from disease. It was stated in evidence at the inquest that, of four children given birth to by the mother of the deceased, one only survived—all of them being immaturely born. The woman arrived in the colony as a prisoner of the Crown in the ship Minerva at the age of fourteen; two years later she married a man who soon left her, and is now reported to be cohabiting with another woman arrived in the colony as a prisoner of the Crown in the ship Minerva at the age of fourteen; two years later she married a man who soon left her, and is now reported to the colony should also be visited upon the devoted heads and lands of the dwellers on the banks of the Castleragh, At length it h

THE UNIVERSITY OF SYDNEY.

ANNUAL COMMEMORATION.

ANNUAL COMMEMORATION.

Notwithstanding the heavy rain which fell on Saturday, a large number of ladies and gentlemen assembled at the University to join in the commemoration and to participate in the feelings of pleasure always inspired by proceedings so full of interest and importance to the colony. While it is pleasing in a young community to see that the cause of general education is popular, it is equally grafifying to find that the high standard of competency required at our University for graduation in arts is not depreciated even by those who most carnessly desire to make increased involvision for cheap and universal instruction in the clementary branches of knowledge. Some of our most enthusiastic meetings have been those convened in the cause of general education; and, certainly, considering the inclemency of the weather, the attendance yesterday must be taken as an evidence of the zeal for education in its higher grades. Although at previous commomentations there have been gatherings equally large and distinguished, yet, from the time of the passing of the Act of Incorporation in 1850, until now, searcely ever has greater interest been manifested in the brief period during which the University has been in existence. The purchase of the Sydney College was at the time considered an important progressive step, and those who took part in the public inauguration of the University in 1852, immediately after the first matriculation examinations, could Lardly have anticipated that, in 1860, they would witness such a security everal gentlemen who have been accustomed to secury positions on the platform which such splending results are expected.

is a last presented on Saturday at a Seat of Learning erected at so great an expense, which has already proved so successful, and from which such splendid results are expected.

Several gentlemen who have been accustomed to occupy positions on the platform were not present at this commemoration. His Honor Sir Alfred Stephen, Knt., his Honor Mr. Justice Therry, Mr. W. C. Wentworth, Mr. S. A. Donaldson, and others, having fet the colony, were unavoidably absent. It was remarked, however, with some surprise that the seats set spart for the members of the Legislature were nearly vacant. Judging from the speeches made in the House, the absence of hone gentlemen could not have resulted from want of sympathy with the aims of the University, and was attributed by some to the inclemency of the weather,—but this could hardly be the cause when so many ladies were present.

Towards the hour of noon, the visitors at this august and most interesting ceremony began to assemble and take the places respectively assigned to to them in different parts of the noble Hall of the University, which was very tastefully ordered for the occasion. The presence of a larger proportion of ladies than usual lent a particular selat to the proceedings, and constituted what was by no means its least pleasing feature. Above the dais, at the eastern end—on either side of the splendid Oxford window were placed the well-known full-length portraits of Sir Charles Nicholson, Bart. (in his robes as Provest), and of Mr. Deas Homson, C.B., one of the members of the Senate. Blelow the window hung a magnificent piece of tapestry, which added greatly to the general effect. The platform itself was fully occupied by upwards of one hundred and fifty persons; the undergraduates of the University sitting at the southern side—behind—and the graduates in a correspondent position, at the opposite extremity. In front of these, in the fore, most row—fening the imposing assemblage of visitors—the Governor-General occupied a Chair of State in the centre, having on his I.L.A.—Pellows; Mr. Peter Faucett, another of the ellows of this corporation, sitting in his place as one f the Senate. The authorities of the Anglican college of St. Paul occupied a correspondent situation near the chair of the Principal,—the Rev. Henry Hose, M.A., the Warden, and the Fellows of the college. Mr. H. H. Browne, the Reverend George Sing, and the Hon. Robert Johnson, M.L.C. Two ther of the Fellows were also present; Mr. Allwood atting as a member of the Senate, and Mr. W. T. Lape being in the body of the Hall. In front of the Provest's Chair was a lectern draped with minson, and embroidered with the University Arms. Mr. Hugh Kennedy, the Registrar, ast on a raised sent, a little to the east of the deas, near the bay window, with a richly carved reading desk before him. In the body of the Hall were several members of the legislature; Mr. Hay, Mr. Alexander M'Arthur, Mr. Broughton, Mr. Jenkins, the Hon. Dr. MaeFarlane, the Hon. James Norton, the Hon. R. J. Want, the Hon. Edward Hunt, and some others. The sents at the southern side were principally devoted to ladies. Amongst the spectators we observed the Rev. William Cuthbertson, B.A.; the Rev. J. Drake, M.A.; Mr. Stephens, M.A.; Master of the Sydney Grammar School, Mr. C. K. Murray; the Consuls of France and Spain, and many other influential members of this community.

The proceedings commenced by the presentation to the Provost, by the Principal, of four students, to whom, for their proficiency, prizes were duly awarded. The Reverend Dr. Woolley, the Principal of the University, in his capacity as Dean of the Faculty of Arts, then read a list of freshmen, of prizemen, and of candidates for degrees—Professor M. B. The Reverend the Prinkerran then conducted the candidates for admission to the degree of Bachelors of Arts to the vestry, whence they returned to the hall, each wearing the hood which is the distinguishing mark of their newly-acquired dignity. The same form was complied with in respect of the graduate who was a candidate for admission as Master of Arts. After taking the Oaths of Allegiance the Provost declared them all to have "passed," and they returned to their seats cheered by their friends both en the dais, and in the assembly. The following degrees were conferred at this convocation:

At the end of the more important part of the ceremony, which was very impressively performed, Mr. Hugh Kennedy, the Registrar of the University, read from his chair, according to custom, the names of the founders and benefactors of the University. Continued applause followed the mention of several of these donations, and especially after the names of Mr. Wentworth, Sir. Charles Nicholson, and Dr. Weelley. Weelley. The special business of the sitting having ter-

"A shorter than usual interval has elapsed between our last commemoration and that which we have this day met to celebrate. During the year 1859 an unavoidable postponement of the period fixed upon for such an observance was of necessity submitted to, in consequence of the unfinished condition of the University buildings. No similar cause for irregularity in our neademic fast is likely to exist hereafter, and experience will, in all probability, justify the considerations which have led to the selection of the present season as that most appropriate for the after, and experience will, in all probability, justify the considerations which have lod to the selection of the present season as that most appropriate for the conterring of degrees and honours, and when the University may suitably come before the public and render some account of the important duties with the discharge of which she has been entrusted.

"Beyond a brief announcement as to the number of students, some questions of general discipline, the enlargement of existing appliances for instruction, or the organisation of new branches of study in separate faculties, there is little to be said on an occasion like the present that will not at once suggest itself to any thoughtful mind. I shall, therefore, content myself with a cursory notice of the principal events connected with our acaderate history during the past year, and the remarks which I shall offer will apply
"lat. To the internal administration of the University, and the present as well as prospective realisation of the objects arrived at in its teaching.

"2 andly. As to its external relations, and the conditions under which alone the full and successful development of such an institution can be reasonably contemplated.

"It has been frequently urged as a subject of desirous of availing demarkers of the advantage held out by the University has been comparatively small. The number of students matriculated cannot have been been required as the exact management of the desirous of availing demarkers of the advantage held out by the University has been comparatively small. The number of students matriculation; and that borne in mind that a tolerably high standard of qualification is required on the part of candidates for admission to matriculation; and that, hitherto, the number of those sceleng for it has during averal years been greater than that of those garning admission are constantly addressed to our principal officers, in relation; and the standard of candidates at such a probations are constantly addressed to our principal officers, in relation to the admission. Enquires and applications are constantly addressed to our principal officers, in relation to the admission of young men who, from went of the University, enter upon the undergraduar course.—Cendour and soxiad policy alike dictate the expediency of a clear understanding on the difficulties and disappointments likely to be encountered by those labouring under such disqualifications. While some careful and extended preparation for that higher and more claborate course of instruction in literature and science to be sought for within the see walls. In the atimulus thus created to intellectual effort, we believe that much substantial good has been differed to the county of the count in all its higher and promising manifestations, should be cherished and guided to great, and noble, and holy ends?

"It was in accordance with the views already expressed in relation to the initiatory examination that the Senate have been guided in fixing the standard of qualification required for degrees. A reasonable but desirable standard of competency has been established; and if some few of our undergraduates have failed to come up to the proscribed ordeal at their first attempt, such failure may, in most instances, be dissociated from any imputation of neglect or idleness, and be justly referred to a want of that early elementary and systematic instruction—the absence of which is only subsequently supplied with difficulty. The proportion of those who may be found unable to pass satisfactorily the required examination necessary to graduation in arts, will, it is confidently hoped, be found less in each succeeding year. In the meantime, the considerations to which I have adverted may be regarded as a reasonable apology for those who, having fulfilled 'all the statutory' obligations respecting attendance on lectures, have, nevertheless, failed in the special exercises essential to the attainment of a degree. They, and all others, must admit that, if an academic title is to be regarded as of the slightest conventional value, it must honestly be what it professes: that those by whom it has been achieved should be regarded as having truly and rightfully, "(am morbus quam decirina,"

The Provost, Sir Charles Nicholson, Bart.,
D.C.L., rose, and stepping forward, spoke as follows:—
A shorter than usual interval has elapsed between our last commemoration and that which we have this day met to celebrate. During the year 1800 or seemand this regarded as the indispensable precedent of all academic honours.

be regarded as an anagenesse precessor as as according homospace in the Faculty of Law has been delivered by Mr. Hargrave during Timity and Michaelmas terms, and will be continued during the present year. It is the anxious wish of the Senate to enlarge all the machinery necessary for the establishment of a partial, if not a complete, curriculum in the sevenal faculties of law and medicine. The homospace of the content of a partial, if not a complete, curriculum in the sevenal faculties of law and medicine. The homospace of the content of th the highest achievement of human intelligence.

"Let not then, any one, in a gridging spirit seek for a justification or npology for the erection of such a structure as this. Is there any object of a purely secular character calculated to evoke more general, more lively, or more enduring interest than one consecrated to the cultivation of the human intellect in all its highest faculties? An institution with such aims is not to be dealt with as one of a sectional character or of ephemeral duration—but is to be tegarded as one destined to last for ages, accessible to all men, of every class and of every creed—co-extensive in its relations and innuence with the whole social fabric of which it is a part, influenced by, influencing the whole republic of letters, of which it is to become a living and active member.

influencing the whole republic of letters, of which it is to become a living and active member.

"Whether such hopes are to be regarded as the vain aspirations of a too sanguine temperament, or as the hopeful conclusions of a right judgment, time only-can prove. Many causes are in operation to modify their realisation. The granting or the withholding of a generous confidence on the part of the public, the wise or the injudicious administration and discharge of their respective obligations by the Fellows, the Professors, and the Students. Promeach and all of these causes may spring influences, beneficial, or adverse, to the future usefulness of the University. And let us not forget, that even under the most favourable auspices, Time is an essential element for complete success in such an undertaking. One or more generations may pass away, and it may be reserved to some future, perhaps distant epoch, to realise all that we hope for. The good seed has been sown, and if in a grateful soil will produce fruit in due season. Genial influences are however needful for the early plant, ere it can become the robust and prolific and wide sheltering tree,—the fostering care of man,—the refreshing dews of Heaven,—the silent lapse of years. If these be granted we despair not of the result. Stretching deep and far its roots into the earth, the stately tree stands erect, unseathed by storm and tempest—

Whether this noble institution has been planted in a barren and uncongenial waste, or in a spot here where it may derive strength and vigour—whether it is to blossom, and bring forth godly fruits, or mere husks and thorns, uscless and noxious—it is for you whom I now address in a great measure to determine. Lastly, let us for a moment consider what are the conditions under which the realisation or destruction of eur hopes is likely to be attended. Patience, industry, prudence, confiding hope, a judgment founded upon and enlightened by past experience, the abnegation of all personal and temporary, or local and political prejudices, must be the attributes and accompaniments of a prosperous growth and a vigorous maturity. On the other hnd, a hasty solicitude to realise that which time alone can afford, a listless indifference on the part of the community to the objets and disadvantages here held out, — a spirit of realizy perimentalism, and a contempt for all that is sanctined by age and experience, the intrusion of polencial or political partiannship; each and all of these nist be adverse to the interest, if not to the very exience, of this great seminary. In recognition and of these has be adverse to the interest, if not to the very exience, of this great seminary. In recognition of theruths here enunciated, let us one and all endeavour, I our language, conduct, example, active exertions, ai personal sacrifices, to build up an institution uponhe successful development and action of which,—I enestly and most solemnly believe—much that belongs to le moral advancement, the present and future horiness and glory of this our adopted country, whe found ultimately to depend."

The Gownon-General said that, according to usual custo it now came to his turn to say a few words, and idid so with very great pleasure, as it allowed him tavail himself of the opportunity of endorsing alliat had been said by the learned Provost in his/dress. From that address it was evident that the sperity of the University might be depended uponom two causes—first, from the excellence of itsaternal management; and, secondly, and he might nost say equally, from the efforts that were made in favour by those who appreciated the benefit that itsuld prove to the young persons who were sent the and to society at large. And in the peral proposition, as to the necessity for inting some general scheme of education, whenebyll might benefit by this institution, he agreed mostompletely with the remarks of their Provost. I this respect the assistance of the masses of soty was called for, as well as that of the Legislature o; and they might never look to have the benefit the institution felt, or in other words, to have a prir system adopted, until they had the necessary neer of feeders in the shape of primary schools, to Pare the young men for the ordeal of study they I to undergo in the University. And upon the parent management, as well as that of the Legislature o; and they might never look to have the benefit glie in the shape of primary schools, to Pare the young men for the ordeal of study they I to undergo in the University. And no right to conferonours, unless they dead on they were setting for the community. In th preliminary to the hard wk and labour that would be sure to meet them in tourse of their career in the world.

The Governor and suitchen quitted the hall, and the assemblage slowly dispaed.

The ELECTORAL LINTS.—I meeting of magistrates has been convened for Tueny (to-morrow), the 3rd instant, to be held at the intral Police Office, for completion of the business meeted with the revision of the electoral lists for theiry and the surrounding hamlets. The attendance of the clerks and the collectors will be required.

Snow River Gold.—I large quantity of gold, which arrived on Friday is, from Kiundra, belonging to the Bank of New Soth Wales, is exhibited at Messrs. Brush and Mac Dannell's, in George-street. The gold-dust weighs 11720zs., and has the appearance of having been broken in extracting it from the quartz; besides which thee are several large nuggests weighing 106 oss., the quartz being of a dark brown colour. There is alsoen view a splendid nuggest which has been brought from the Snowy River by private hands—the quart; is of a dark red from colour—it weighs 128½ oss., and the owners have refused 2506 to rit, expecting to obtain a higher price. The nugget belongs to a paty of four diagers, who have brought besides 2500 worth of gold. A quantity of flaky gold, from Adelong, weighing 165 ozs., is also shown, and we very fine nuggets, rather water-worn, brought down by a previous escort, from Meroo, of the weight of 69 ozs. 16 dwts. Altogether, Messrs. Brush and McDonnell have on view on their premises about 2500 downthof gold, the bulk of which is the produce of thenew gold-fields.

Farat Accremen—On Friday evening last, a man, named James largley, lost lis life by drowning, having fallen overboard from the ballast boat Star, when off the bind the deceased was observed to run forward and let go the peak halliards. He line has been considered to the measurement of the wind suddenly freshened, and the deceased was observed to run forward and let go the peak halliards. He lim, and fell over the lee quarter. He age. It is a theme replace with interest, and, we have no doubt, will be ably treated by Captain Martindale.

The Weather and the Country.—Last week we were visited with the most delighful warm summer weather, but on Sunday and yesterday the heat became so intense that the weatherwise prognosticated a change, and last night, after the sea breeze had partially moderated, the rain came down pretty freely, and has continued failing in light showers during the day, but not in sufficient quantities at present to warrant any alarm as to its effects. The district has suffered so severely of late from the effects of heavy rains, that the slightest sign of a shower now induces people to imagine that we are on the eve of another flood, but we trust that we shall be free from such vicitations for a long time to come. The great quantity of rain that has fallen since Christmas has in some parts of the district done a deal of good. The feed in all directions is most luxuriant, at Mount Elrington and Farringdon this is particularly noticeable. Last year at this time there was no feed at all, and every night we were visited with a severe frost, but now we are likely to have a good winter feed, which will be a great boon to the district, as the hay crop is not large and will consequently fetch a very high price this winter. On the small farms around Farringdon the greatest activity prevails, ploughing is going on in most places, and every one is busy. In conclusion, we must say that we have never seen the country around Braidwood look so beautiful as it does at present. The creek at the northern entrance to the town is running over the dem, and when the Goulburn mail crossed the Shoalhaven River this morning it was rising rapidly.—

Exports.—The rather favourable advices from home have comewhat induced business in our market; but the continued firmness shown by the holders of produce, consequent on the very moderate stocks and supplies, and the unsettled state of freights, have greatly checked operations. The North-Western Exploration.—Our Launceston contemporary, the Cornuall Chroniate, states that letters have been received from Mr. Ronald Gunn (the leader of the North Western Tasmanian Exploring party) which bring the welcome intelligence of a discovery of the greatest importance to the colony. Not the discovery of a valuable gold-field, however desirable such a discovery would be, but that of a large tract of well-watered and lightly timbered country, abounding in luxuriant herbage, and consisting of either level lands or gentle hills. When Mr. Gunn set out upon his prospecting expedition, we stated that if his pilgrimage was not rewarded by the discovery of a rich gold-field, that being the ostensible object of his ocarch, we had not a doubt but that the colony would reap the advantages of his observation, either by the pastoral and agricultural country of value that would be added to that we already possess, or the autiferous region we had reason to believe existed in the terra incognita of the westward. It is gratifying to know that pastoral and agricultural land of value has been ascertained to exist at a place where it was not known before, and if a gold-country has not yet been found, we at least know the indications are not loss certain than was expected.

From a correspondence which appears in the Launceston Incommer of the End altimo, we observe that the experiment of finite-salmon is now being carried out. Mr. Jance of Camania with London on the 11th January, stating that early in February from 20,000 to 5,000 salmon ova would be despatched by a ship proceeding direct to Hobart Town; and from a letter from one of the departments of the local Government we learn that the streams and ponds prepared for the reception of the expected var would be rendy in good time. they feel that they cannot adequately describe their real superfority.

The importers in bringing this shipment to public competition, are guiced by a desire that it should be equally distributed, as, in all probability, there will not be another cargo of sherries dispatched to this port for the next twelve or eighteen months. Under these circumstances Messrs, W. Dean and Co. reiterate the desire that merchants, connoisseurs, wines merchants, total keepers, and the public generally should avail themselves of an opportunity to purchase from first hands that class of wines which are always saleable, though very rarely to be obtained in this market.

THE COOMA AND BOMBALA DISTRICT COURTS.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sin,—"It is wise soon that knows his own father," is a saying that has now passed into a proverb, though some prefer taking "It is a wise father that knows his own son." Either of these versions will, I think, apply in the case I am about to bring before your notice, for it will be seen that the wisdom in question exists in a pre-eminent degree in both the one and the other. Those who have lately attended the above-named courts must have been struck by the very unusual, if not unprecedented, spectacle which presented itself there. I presume, however, that the public generally are not aware of the fact, which I briefly state as follows:—"That in those courts there has of late presided a judge, who brings with him his own son to conduct cases in his presence, while he himself is at the time acting in his official capacity." That considerable license should be permitted to lawyers in open Court is now admitted, and the profession cannot be said to be backward in making the best use of their privilege in this respect but it has not, to my humble knowledge, been proved yet that a close relationship, and identical interests between the persons who conduct the business of a law court, are likely to produce a better administration of justice, or are calculated to instill into the public mind the settled belief that the law is dispensed with even-handed and unflinching integrity. If there be no harm in having one son in the Court, why not at once have two? one for the plaintiff, and the other for the defondant; the two together, with papa as judge, would make things comfortable for the family. No doubt, it has been only an experiment made this time to see how the public like it. I know of one judge, who could, at a few moments' notice, fill a jury-box with first cousins into the bargain, provided the principle meets with approbation. At all events, doubt, it has been only an experiment made this time to see how the public like it. I know of one judge, who could, at a few moments' notice, fill a jury-box with first cousins into the bargain, provided the principle meets with approbation. At all eyents, there must be a little doubt about the transaction. Would it not be six-and-eightpence well expended on the part of any learned gentleman, having an interest in the solution of the problem, to put this question to one of his community, known to understand the spirit of the law, "Whether the above-named conduct of a judge argues the possession, on his part, of that amount of prudence, foresight, and disinterestedness, which are necessary to the full, perfect, and conscientious discharge of his arducus duties;" If the sum I have named would not defray the expense of this consultation, without doubt the public, by subscription, will pay the difference. I am not versed in such affairs, but I should suppose that it might be the duty of the Law-officers of the Crown to give advice upon the subject graits. I do not think I amfar wrong in saying that the office of magistrate is not advancing in the estimation of the people, and it would be dangerous in the last degree for the public, and the Press as their representative, to allow the least violation of the rules of propriety and decency in the superior Courts. Amidst the various high offices of the old country, there are mone so much prized as the Judgeships. To be a Judge there is to wear a badge that marks a man for the remainder of his days as a being almost above his species, because it records that by unanimous consent his fellow-citizens believe he can lay aside the foibles of human nature, and in his devotion to the public service will bring to bear upon his duties an honesty of purpose above suspicion, es well as a fine and sensitive perception of the sanctivy of his trust. Though in a distant land I still view, with profound admiration, the lives and names of those honorableand noblemined men who have risen disrepute, no matter will a criminal or a Judge.

OUR WATER SUPPLY.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sin,—Permit me to ask our Mayor and aldermen, through the medium of your valuable paper—1st. What quantity of water we are supplied with from Lachlan Swamp at the present time? 2nd. What quantity we are supplied with from Botany? My object in applying for the above information is to enable me to know by calculation what the water can be supplied to the citizens at per tun, including interest on the capital expended in constructing those works. It is a subject of very considerable importance to know at what price we can be supplied with water. The Corporation or their engineer must have got very far out of their way to suppose that the water cannot be supplied at threepence per tuninstead of one shilling per tun, which they wish to charge us. But it is like many of the Corporation jobs.

BANKEES—The Australian Joint Stock Bank, Sydney and Rockhampton.

BANKESS—The Australian Joint Stock Bank, Sydney and Rockhampton.

Solutions—Meesrs. Milford and Croft.

1. It is proposed to form a Company under the above designation, for the purpose of systematically examining, working, and testing the richness and capabilities of the Northern Gold-Felds.

2. The Gold-Fields now more particularly under notice are situated in the District of Port Curtle, and have been worked at Cancena and Gracemere. The operations of the Company, however, will not be confined to these places, but will be extended in such directions as shall offer inducement.

but will be extended in such directions as many whole ducement.

3. That gold does exist in the district is an established fact, as since the commencement of the Canoona diggings in 1858, according to the Mint returns alone, 45,000 canoes of gold—equal in value to nearly £180,000—have been collected from the surface diggings, only off a very small space of ground, and by the use of the very rudest methods. Had skilled labour, with machinery, been employed there can be no doubt that the result would have been much greater.

Had skilled labour, when meaning would have been muce greater.

4. It is the opinion of miners (scientific and practical) who have visited Cancona that a second bottom exists at that place, and which has not yet been reached. Should this opinion prove correct, the supposition, amounting almost to a certainty, is that heavy auriferous deposits lies there.

that place, and which has not yet been reached. Should this opinion prove correct, the supposition, amounting almost to a certainty, in that heavy suriferous deposits lie there.

5. In a report made by the Commissioner Wiseman, to the Government of New South Wales, it is stated that a tract of country of large extent, lying to the north-west of Canoons, comprising the Watershods of Princhester and Maribrough Creek, with the Peninsula situated between Broad Sound and Shoalwater Bay, is based upon rocks of quartiflerous grantite and porphyry, and in other respects presents a highly suriferous appearance over this great surface, it has been assertianed that thousands of acres lie unmarked, which will yield an average of one rennyweight of gold to the cart load of earth; and, as the tract of country alluded to possesse every natural advantage for the successful carrying out of gold mining operations, it only requires the applications of that science and skill, machinery and labour, which capital alone can command, to make its vast wealth available.

6. It is almost superfluous to call the attention of the residents of the Northern Districts to the immense advantages which must accrue to them in the increased walke of property of every description from the successful working of a rich gold-field in their neighbourhood, or to remark that the probability of such result is readered certain by the increased knowledge resulting from experiences of gold mining with the facility of securing the services of competent judges for so important a work.

7. There is every reason to conclude that gold mining operations, if judiciously conducted, will be eminently successful in these districts; and it is, consequently, the increased with the Canoona diggings, have expressed a wish to become shareholders in the Fitzroy Gold Mining Company, it has been received until the 1st of May neat, upon the following terms—2s, 6d, per share on application; 7s, 6d, per share on application; 7s. 6d, per share on application; 7s. 6d, per share on

78. 6d. per share on allotment; and the residue by calls as shall be determined.

10. A special general meeting of shareholders (in the proceedings of which all to whom shares may now be allotted will be entitled to take a part), will be called as early as possible after allotment is made, when the Deed of Settlement will be submitted and the election of directors and other officers will be proceeded with.

11. Forms of application for shares, with all information, can be obtained on application to the provisional directors, at their offices pro tem, Mr. Mansfield's store, Rockhampton, Queensland, from the Company's agent—Sydney not yet appointed.—H. M. COCKBURN, Esq.
